THE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

The Minister of Education announced to the House last evening the choice of the Government for the presidency of the University of British Columbia. Dr. Frank Fairchild Westbrook has many things to recommend him for such a position.

A VICTORIA SPIRIT

Our evening contemporary says: "We must develop a Victoria spirit and fight resolutely for our own interests." We very heartily applaud this sentiment.

ADVICE TO VOTERS

Mr. James Bryce, British Ambassador at Washington, is not presumably a fan of municipal conditions in Victoria.

FUTURE OF HUDSON'S BAY

An interesting comparison between the Hudson's Bay area and points in Russia and Siberia was made in the course of an address by Mr. F. H. Clergue before the Montreal Canadian Club the other day.

THE LATE MR. MATSON

The late Mr. R. H. Matson, of Toronto, was a fine type of Canadian, although not native-born. He was a gentleman of excellent business ability, energetic and resourceful.

MR. MARTIN BURRELL

Mr. Martin Burrell is winning golden opinions by reason of the manner in which he is discharging his duties as Minister of Agriculture.

The country will soon realize that Mr. Burrell is the strongest and most progressive Minister who has presided over the Department of Agriculture since Confederation.

AN ALLEGED SCANDAL

The explanation given by the Minister of Public Works concerning the contract for heating and plumbing in the new Departmental Buildings, now in course of construction, appears very effectively of the whole matter.

JAPAN'S NEW PREMIER

Japan is passing through troublous political times. Within the space of a few weeks she has had three premiers, and it is now rumored that Count Yamamoto will be forced to resign.

FLACER STRIKE REPORTED

An exceptionally promising placer strike, about 150 miles to the east of Atlin, is reported by Mr. Hugh Molyneux, provincial road superintendent for that district.

erics alone, the speaker considered that there was sufficient cause to justify the building of railways to that great inland sea. He considered that salmon canneries would prove to be a success, while there was also opportunity for the establishment of oil refineries.

Would it not be just as well to refrain from comment upon any alleged disagreements between the members of the Scott Antarctic expedition until the survivors have had a full opportunity to place all the facts before the public?

Our evening contemporary quotes The Colonist as saying that Mr. Foster is "one of the most eminent statesmen the Dominion has ever produced."

GERMANY'S NEW TYPE OF WARSHIP

Germany is to have a new type of warship which will fire aerial torpedoes. It will be speedier than any Dreadnought, lie low in the water and fight end on.

FLACER STRIKE REPORTED

An exceptionally promising placer strike, about 150 miles to the east of Atlin, is reported by Mr. Hugh Molyneux, provincial road superintendent for that district.

Certain notices sent in to The Colonist for publication from time to time do not appear for the reason that they are not vouched for by any person.

The Attorney-General was quite right in declining to give an opinion upon the legal question involved in the vacancy in the mayoralty.

We shall expect to see the resignation of Mr. Parker Williams in the hands of Mr. Speaker immediately, if not sooner.

COMMENTING ON THE VOTE OF THE NAVAL RESOLUTION AT OTTAWA

The London Globe (Unionist) says: "Public opinion in Canada has already condemned the men prepared to sacrifice the great cause of Empire for purely personal ends."

NATIONAL OPERA HOUSE

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The failure of Oscar Hammerstein's palatial opera house ought to have convinced the few people who still doubted the fact that the people of London have no ear for music except the "musical" comedy and raketime varieties, but this is so far from being the case that Thos. Beecham, fresh from the triumphs in Herlin of his "English" orchestra, principally consisting of Germans, by the way, and most of the time under a French conductor, is even now planning to risk some of the money his father made out of his famous pills, in an effort to make Londoners listen to some of the most modern grand operas.

He will begin by hiring Covent Garden for a limited number of performances principally of Strauss' famous operas "Salome," "Elektra," and "Der Rosenkavalier," but this is only a beginning, for before another twelve months have passed he announces he will realize his dream of a real national English opera house. He has already chosen the site, the plans are ready and the building is about to begin.

The theatre is to seat 6,000, and will be planned on novel lines. The stage will extend on occasions into the auditorium, in the case of an arena; the dramatic possibilities of this arrangement are manifold. No one who saw Reinhardt's production of "Oedipus" at Covent Garden could help feeling that all sorts of novel beauties might result from the increased stage spaces. Mr. Beecham's idea is that his opera house shall be national in the true sense of the word, and wants to found what he calls, for want of a better word, a "Volks-theater" (people's theatre) and it undoubtedly as long as it lasts, will gladden the hearts of the thousands of Germans, Italians and Frenchmen of moderate means, exiled in London, who love music, but have no chance of satisfying their tastes as long as the cheapest seat in Covent Garden costs $2. In Beecham's opera house seats in the gallery will cost only 12 cents, and he will surely find his national temple of music's higher regions crowded with music-loving foreigners.

For one thing, Thomas Beecham is not expecting to make money, so he will not be disappointed, but he will stick to his national theatre with true British bulldog tenacity. "I have already lost one fortune on opera," Thomas Beecham said the other day. "I am prepared to lose another. Anyhow, I am not in the slightest degree desirous of making it a commercial success. I want to reach the hearts of the British people; but I want to help to educate them also. An opera house which makes a profit is not doing its work properly. However, come and see me again when my Covent Garden season is over. I shall know how about my scheme then."

"SAFETY FIRST" IS MOTTO OF C. P. R.

New Move Is Started to Instill Into Employees a Higher Regard for Safety of Life and Limb.

MONTREAL, Feb. 17. — In order to lessen the number of accidents and to reduce the loss of life and property, a movement has been begun along the whole of the C. P. R. system for the formation of Safety First Committees. These organizations will have as members conductors, roadmasters, trainmen, engineers, shopmen, car repairers and representatives from all departments. As employees have always been the greatest sufferers from accidents the movement has naturally its origin from them. On the eastern division the movement is being strenuously supported by officers of the company, and week by week the excellent work is spreading along the system and committee meetings are being held at various points and advice given which will assist in the prevention of accidents, for prevention, after all, is far better than cure.

Accidents' Awful Toll

The new policy of the spreading of Safety First work among the employees of the C. P. R. has been clearly demonstrated as an absolute necessity, especially when it is considered that according to a recent bulletin issued by the United States Government it was shown that for every fifteen minutes of every day in the year one death is recorded resulting through some kind of accident throughout the continent and the injuries at the rate of one every sixteen seconds of every minute and hour of the day and year (and contrary to the general understanding only one-tenth of the deaths and one-sixteenth of the injuries) are those of railroad employees and the other nine-tenths and fifteen-sixteenths being in the other industries of the country. The railroad list of casualties as shown by the last report of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the year ending June 30, 1912, was 3602 railway men killed and 126,039 injured, or nearly ten per cent of all the men employed, of which 3183 were killed and 38,803 were injured in operating accidents, and 439 killed and 79,237 injured in industrial accidents, such as in shops, round houses, offices, stations and repair yards.

Started in States

The idea of teaching the men to endeavor to observe certain rules which it was thought would minimize the number of accidents, was first mooted in the United States, and it has been found to work so admirably that on forty-four railways in Canada and the United States, covering 144,130 miles of track, the spread of Safety First is being carried out by a regular staff and is thoroughly organized, with successful results. The C. P. R. always up-to-date in whatever policy it pursues, has been quietly working away at the Safety First movement for more than a year, and the work is now expanding at a tremendous rate. Literature has been circulated throughout the system and meetings have been held in the East and others are being held for Western points, and before long it is anticipated that the movement will have reached a very important stage. Committees are being arranged in various centres where the men employed in every sphere of railway work will be instructed to carry out certain rules and regulations which are being compiled by themselves with a view to lessening the dangers of the railway world. Every employee is a Safety First man and reports unsafe conditions or actions to his committee. This is an employees' movement and the railway companies pay the time and expenses of the employee while engaged in this work.

Work Is Safer Now

While railway disasters fatal to many lives strikes the country as exceptionally appalling, yet the killing or injuring of single employees does not especially attract public attention. The danger a brakeman had in days gone by was far more perilous than it is today. The more modern devices of coupling which have been installed from time to time have greatly lessened that danger, but there are still many risks in connection with the work of the brakeman which, in many cases, might be avoided. This is but one of the hundreds of branches which will fall under the jurisdiction of the Safety First Committees work. The chief keynote is to educate railway employees not to take chances. The causes of railway accidents are so many that it is impossible to attempt to enumerate them, but that forms part of the work of the committees throughout the system, and the adoption of safety practices to meet the many emergencies. One of the principal objects of the committees is that every employee shall assist his fellow workman, and whenever he observes him doing even the smallest thing that he knew might endanger the life of another workman, or cause him injury, is to set him right, and to remember that "Safety First" is the best motto.

GERMANY'S VETERANS WILL BE PENSIONED

Thousands of Dollars to Be Appropriated by Important Municipality—Public Not Advised

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—The allocation of thousands of dollars by one or other of the more important municipalities is now almost a daily event. Leipzig has already voted $125,000 for a scheme which has yet to be developed and explained to the public. Chemnitz, the German Manchester, has voted a fund of $35,000, and announces that it will ensure the distribution of $2,500 yearly to the military veterans living within its walls. Augsburg, which promises a similar annual distribution to the amount of $1,500, has also provided a special fund for this year amounting to $87,500. Karlsruhe is another town that has decided to devote its commemoration fund to the veterans. Kiel has voted $25,000 for a maternity hospital, Essen $87,500 for a young men's institute, Düsseldorf $12,500 for the combating of tuberculosis, while the town of München-Gladbach (a town between the Rhine and the Dutch frontier, not to be confused with the capital of Bavaria) has decided to build a new municipal theatre, and together with private subscriptions and the municipal funds, $375,000 has been accumulated for the purpose.

The conservative resolution demanding that "peaceful picketing" in time of strikes should be forbidden by an imperial law has been defeated in the Reichstag by 282 votes to 52. The Secretary of State for the Interior, Herr Delbrück, said that it would be difficult to formulate a definition of "picketing" to which no objection would be made and that the terrorism of the worker was carried on not so much by picketing as by methods at home and in the family, which were less amenable to legislation. There had been 400 cases in which women had interfered with workers, not as "pickets" but as "franc-tireurs." He had consulted the Imperial Minister of Justice and had found that there must be a revision of the penal code before the abuses of picketing could be really checked.

AUSTRIAN POSTAL BANKS SUCCESSFUL

Thirty Years' Work of This Institution Show Deposits Which Otherwise Would Be in Stocking or Hole in Wall.

VIENNA, Feb. 17.—A remarkable Austrian institution, the Postsparkasse or Post Office Savings Bank, has just celebrated the thirty years' jubilee of its existence. Nearly 10 per cent of the population have deposits in this institution, averaging about $1.50 each. It may, therefore, be said to have fulfilled its original object, which was to supplant the stocking, the hole under the floor, or the flower pot buried in the garden, which were until recently the favorite repositories of the savings of a large part of the population. In this country, however, where the ordinary investor prefers to put his money on deposit in a bank rather than buy stocks or shares, several private savings banks have still larger deposits than the State institution, because they offer a higher rate of interest than the 3 per cent which is all the Government will allow.

Plays Big Role

A more recent development of the institution, however, shows an enormous role in the economic life of the country. This is the Postal Savings Bank check and money-order system. In Austria, the use of ordinary checks on private and joint stock banks is very limited. To procure a check-book in order to pay or to purchase is almost to stamp oneself a swindler, and checks are regarded with so much suspicion that they are invariably declined even by one's own butcher, baker, or landlord.

The risk and inconvenience of paying for everything in cash and of sending money about are lessened by the "Post-ergscheine." Nearly 800,000 public bodies, firms, and individuals, including all Government departments, all considerable business houses, and many doctors, lawyers, landowners, and other individuals who have to receive money from their clients or customers, have so-called check accounts at the Postal Savings Bank, which may never be drawn below the minimum of $20. They are entitled to use a special kind of perforated money-order form printed with the number of their account, called "Erlagechein," and one of these is enclosed with a tax demand note, invoice or bill, as the case may be, and sent to the debtor.

Is Valid Receipt

All the debtor has then to do is to take the form to the nearest post-office, sign it, and pay in the amount written on it. He then receives part of the perforated form back, stamped by the post office, and this is a valid receipt for the payment of the amount; another part of the form is delivered to the payee, while the third slip is retained by the postal savings bank. Nearly one and a half thousand million pounds were paid in this way by checks drawn on the postal savings bank during 1912, including nearly twenty million pounds of taxes. The postal savings bank has its own clearing house.

"FRASER MILLS" NO MORE

Municipality Surrounding Big Lumber Mills to Be Known as Millardville in Future

NEW WESTMINSTER, Feb. 17.—Fraser Mills is not the name of the thriving community which surrounds the giant industry of the Canadian Western Lumber Company. Nor should it be as it is colloquially called Frenchtown, after the settlers from Quebec who live there and work at the mills. It has been formally given the name of Millardville, and apparently the new name has not sprung into sufficient popularity to please the acting postmaster there. He has displayed a notice that all mail matters addressed to Fraser Mills but meant for Millardville will be held there for a month, and if not called for within that time will be sent to the dead letter department. The lines which will supply Millardville with street lights and power generally are now being constructed by the Western Canada Power Company, and the work will soon be completed. P. C. FINANCES OF CHINA A WORLD PROBLEM

An Illuminating Message From the Peking Correspondent of The London Daily Telegraph—Scramble for Loans.

The special correspondent of The London Daily Telegraph, cabling from Peking under date of January 24, said: I am now in a position to give the readers of The Daily Telegraph a complete and exclusive account of the latest phases of the financial fight over China, showing in which world-politics today interlock at Peking and poison business to the detriment of dominant British interests. On Monday the French Minister, in obedience to precise instructions from Paris, called at the Wai-chiao-pu and indicated that, so far as concerned the French section of the six-power group, all negotiations were ended, and that anything new must start afresh on an entirely different basis. Meanwhile, the six-power group, apprised of the defection of the Franco-Russian sections, officially advised the Finance Minister that they were unable to make cash advances as required until the loan agreement was signed, with every stipulation which the group required, leaving the question of advances and all other details entirely in the hands of the group. This meant the end of Chinese independence.

Russian Demand

Following this, the Russian Minister called twice at the Wai-chiao-pu, peremptorily demanding the payment of the Russian Boxer arrears, and using the strongest language, but leaving Mongolia especially mentioned. On Tuesday the Finance Minister, since China badly needs money—realizing the perilous situation, opened independent negotiations. Four quarters responded.

In the first place, a Belgian combined group offered $15,000,000 immediate cash advances if certain large mining rights were conceded. The business was unsound for China, and was promptly rejected.

Secondly, a nominally American concern offered to discount Chinese Treasury bills for immediate cash to the extent of $1,000,000.

Thirdly, Mr. Crisp, whose contract for the remaining $5,000,000, I am officially informed, was cancelled for a consideration of $150,000 indemnification, offered immediately to issue $5,000,000 if the six-power contract was handed over, and to advance $3,000,000 in cash. The Finance Minister, however, insisted that before fresh business Mr. Crisp should hand over in advance the final instalment of the September loan, which is already in the hands of London bankers, and is not payable to China until February 15. In this quarter the pourparlers continue.

Fourthly, another powerful London group, and this is an important one, obtained an option until to-morrow noon for a big loan.

Interesting Position

The position is thus one of extraordinary interest, transcending that of September last. The English and German sections of the six-power group, acting independently, are today tendering anew, stating their willingness to make cash advances, if China accepts certain arduous auditor conditions, which China is determined not to accept.

It should be mentioned parenthetically that the six-power group advances of $1,800,000 have already been made, being drawn from the Hukwang Railway $8,000,000 loan issued to the public in 1911, and remaining in the bankers' hands, on which China pays 5 per cent, the bankers retaining 1 per cent, and charging for advances 6 per cent plus 3 per cent discount.

It will be apparent from these remarkable facts that the suggestion which your correspondent has already made, that a commission be opened by the Foreign Office to take expert advice is more and more imperative, for whilst China is continually charged with bad faith and impending bankruptcy, the plain fact is that the rich milch cow sorely needs an honest cowherd to prevent her from being milked to death. Sir Edward Grey's opportunity is unique.

New Invention Promises to Do Away With Necessity for Actual Bating and Drinking

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Feb. 17.—Edison is placed in the passe class, and eating and drinking are taken from the luxury list and placed on the common place through a wonderful invention made public by George H. Hadley, of this place. The invention is a gastrograph, which reproduces on photographic records all the gastronomical sensations and results, which can be reproduced at will by simply affixing the gastronomical transmitter to the palate, and stating the record. The gastrograph, according to the inventor, will reproduce the most ample banquet, from soup to nuts, on a single record, and the meal can be eaten a thousand times over.

The data of the gastrograph have not been made public as yet, but Mr. Hadley states that the sensation recorder is affixed to the palate and an electric wire transmits all the sensations to the delicate cylinder on which the same is recorded, the same as on a phonograph. A thousand records can be made from one.

While the senses that are most affected are merely imagination, the inventor is yet at sea as to wide-spread effects on the human system will be the same as the primitive and original way of eating and drinking, but he is inclined to think there will be little difference. Bantley's Orchestra, Masquerade Dance, Saanichton, Thursday, February 20.

ACCOUNT OF SCOTT'S WORK IN ANTARCTIC

Some of the Great Difficulties Which Were Encountered and the Men Who Faced Them—A Stirring Tale.

In November last, The London Times received from Herbert G. Ponting the following account of Capt. Scott's Antarctic expedition and of some of the work accomplished:

"Since my return to England from the Antarctic, having completed my work of illustrating Captain Scott's expedition, I have found that much misapprehension exists in regard to the objects of that enterprise. The popular idea that there has been a race for the South Pole is an error. Captain Scott has not been racing, nor has he been engaged in a mere dash to the Pole. He is leading a great scientific expedition—perhaps the greatest ever sent out from England—and the reaching of the South Pole was but an incident in the extensive programme of work mapped out. To race would have been to jeopardize the success of the main objects in the expedition, and Captain Scott would not allow the presence of a rival in the field to move him from the course which he considered wisest and best.

Within four months of our departure from New Zealand we had lost nine ponies out of nineteen, nearly half the total transport on which he was chiefly relying. It would be impossible to overstate the seriousness of this loss. Had two or three more ponies succumbed it is doubtful whether the main objects of the expedition could ever have been achieved, as in this work success is entirely dependent on the transport of a certain amount of food. It was principally due to this misfortune that Captain Scott did not start on the Polar journey till November 1. His original plans provided for leaving Capt. Evans on October 1; but October is a very cold and tempestuous month, and to have exposed the remaining transport animals to the additional hardships which this weather would have entailed would have involved to grave a risk. He therefore reluctantly postponed his start for a month. That month probably lost for Captain Scott the honor of being first at the South Pole.

The Last Stages
When the last supporting party, led by Lieutenant, now Commander Evans, left Captain Scott on January 4, the Polar party were only 146 miles from the goal of their hopes and in excellent health and spirits, and were traveling at the rate of fifteen miles a day. All being well the Pole should therefore have been reached about January 15 last. Caches of food had been made every sixty miles along the route, there was ample for the explorers to enjoy full rations on the whole return journey. The party were expected back at that point, fifteen miles from Cape Evans, where the Terra Nova was waiting for them, about March 16; but on March 5 the sea was freezing so rapidly that Lieutenant Pennell, then commanding the ship, considered it unwise to remain longer, owing to the hourly increasing risk that the ship would be frozen in. It is unfortunate that we were unable to remain a week or ten days longer, as we should almost certainly have brought back with us the news that Captain Scott had reached the Pole about January 15. He and his companions probably returned to winter quarters before the end of March. No further news can be received from him until the Terra Nova again returns from the far south about the end of next March. The members who accompanied Captain Scott to the Pole are Dr. Edward Wilson, Captain L. E. G. Oates, Lieutenant Bowers, and Petty Officer Evans.

Fine Tribute

Mr. Ponting paid a high tribute to his chief. He writes:
"Captain Scott has tremendous staying power, and any amount of energy of the right kind—the kind that sets a steady pace and keeps it up all day. If love of work can pull him through we shall hear next year that he has not failed to accomplish all to which he has set his hand. The amount of care given to his plans to ensure every possible chance of success and eliminate all unnecessary risk was remarkable. One can scarcely realize until one actually goes to the Polar regions what organizing power is required successfully to lead a great scientific enterprise such as this. Captain Scott possesses this power in a marked degree, and ably keeps pace with the experts in charge of the various departments. Physicist, biologist, zoologist or geologist, he can meet them all on their own ground, and discuss the most intricate details of the science which is his specialty. His plan of campaign has been drawn up from lessons gained in the field of practical experience in these regions, and from study of the methods of every Polar explorer.

Antarctic Physical Conditions

Dr. Simpson, the chief physicist of the expedition, has returned to India, as the Meteorological Department cannot spare his services any longer. He has done most valuable work, and his researches into the magnetic and other physical conditions of the Antarctic will prove of great interest to the scientific world. Even the general public can hardly fail to be interested in hearing something of the terrific weather conditions which prevailed during our stay. The season we spent there was the most severe yet recorded in the Antarctic. Even the general public can hardly fail to be interested in hearing something of the terrific weather conditions which prevailed during our stay. The season we spent there was the most severe yet recorded in the Antarctic.

On July 2 it was fairly decent weather in the morning until 9 o'clock, when the temperature was 35 degrees below zero. Then it started to blow, and by noon was blowing 43 miles an hour, not in gusts, but continuously. Between 2 p. m. and 4 p. m. it blew 52 miles an hour, and between 9 p. m. and 10 p. m. it blew 63 miles an hour, with a temperature of 31 degrees below zero. That gale continued to blow at over gale strength—35 miles an hour—for six days, and between 10 and 11 o'clock on July 10 it blew 66 miles an hour, and in some of the gusts a velocity of 80 miles an hour was recorded.

Other members of the expedition who have done good work, and have returned this year, and they were unable to remain any longer, are C. H. Mearns, who was in charge of the dogs which have rendered such splendid service; B. C. Day, the motor engineer; and T. G. Taylor, the Australian physiologist.

Captain Scott paid the art of photography a great tribute in making it a branch of the expedition work. Many hundreds of photographs have been made, and a large quantity of cinematograph films comprise a complete animated record of the expedition's work and the animal life of the Polar regions. The cinematograph has proved a valuable aid to the study of Antarctic zoology. By its means it has been possible to record the interesting life of the seals, penguins and skuas, in complete detail, showing the whole domestic life of these creatures; and, by good fortune, some striking films have for the first time been secured showing whales—in their native element. The work of the expedition in each scientific department has yielded results equalling, if not exceeding, the most sanguine expectations. Geological and biological discoveries of the utmost interest to science have been made. There is, indeed, no branch of the enterprise which has not justified the words of Captain Scott's dispatch, "I am staying in the Antarctic for another year in order to continue and complete my work."
